Making the Grade: In-House Dashboards for a Data-Driven Culture

VIRTUAL EVENT | 2018 June 27, at 1pm – 2pm EST

Is your community looking for innovative ways to relay the current health of your community parks to your team, elected boards, and the public? Or have a way to proactively plan future improvement investments based on overall park health? Perhaps a better ROI?

The answers to these questions aren't always easy to come by, but there is hope (and it's affordable too!).

The team at Park District of Oak Park, Illinois, developed an in-house, mobile evaluation tool to easily inspect and measure the quality of park conditions in order to ensure the highest level of service. This data is used for internal work plans, budget development, and public communication. Through this evaluation tool, Anyone can view the dashboards, whether they are Board members or residents. The data drives decision-making for capital investment, maintenance improvements, and prioritization.
